FDR May Ask Minimum Basic Crop Prices

SUBSIDY PLAN GIVEN UP, SAYS CAPITAL REPORT

Stabilization Program Being Readied For Congress Action

COSTS TO SET VALUES

Proposal Said To Cling To Little Steel Formula As Wage Guide

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—President Roosevelt was reliably reported today to have abandoned the subsidy method of holding down living costs, and instead plans to ask congress for permission to guarantee American farmers minimum prices for their basic crops.

Well-informed sources stated that this plan to utilize "minimum support prices" is the framework of the new stabilization program announced by President Roosevelt as being readied for congressional action after the summer recess.

Under the new program, the Commodity Credit Corporation will set minimum prices for many farm products. These prices, it was said, will be determined after wartime costs of farm production have been taken into consideration.

Increases Loom

In some instances, it was disclosed, support prices for farm commodities will be set at levels above present ceilings, and will result in an increase in the cost of living. But this increase is stated to be "infinitesimal" and should not be countered by any general increase in the present level of wages paid to industrial workers.

Contrary to previously published reports, the program does not contemplate scrapping the "Little Steel" formula for granting wage increases.

The new anti-inflation program is still in the discussion stage, with War Food Administrator Marvin Jones conducting the studies. It is understood that the present roll backs in butter and meat prices by direct subsidies may be abandoned because of Jones' conviction that they are "unworkable."

As the new program now stands, (Continued on Page Three)

NEW STEAK IS MADE OF YEAST AND MOLASSES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6—Synthetic meat, made from yeast, water, molasses and costing about one-fifth the price of natural beefsteak, is in production at Anheuser-Busch, Inc., in St. Louis, it was learned today.

The product, it was said, will fool all but the most critical palates.

Thousands of pounds of the "meat" already have been purchased by the army and navy and lend-lease agencies, it was learned.

Coached Evaders?

CHARGE of conspiring to violate the selective service act has brought the arrest in New York of Stephen Weinberg, above, who is accused by federal authorities of having coached at least a dozen men in faking of mental or physical ailments so they would be rejected for service. (International)

FATHER DRAFT AROUSES ANGER

Eastern Boards Refuse To Issue Call Before All Others Are Inducted

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6—Chairmen of five Philadelphia area draft boards today joined the mounting opposition against the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers and announced they would not recommend a single one for induction until all able-bodied and childless men were called up.

Clem J. Stefanowicz, the only chairman who would permit use of his name, wrote Selective Service headquarters in Harrisburg: "I will not call one father until I call all single men and married men without children, regardless of the work they are doing to help the war effort."

Concerning the childless men, he stated: "Let them fight and let the fathers take their places."

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 6—Vincent De Paul Slavin, chairman of Draft Board No. 2, New Jersey's largest, today refused to draft any fathers until all single men in his district have been inducted.

Slavin announced his stand in letters to President Roosevelt, every member of congress, the governors of the 48 states, Secretary of War Stimson, War Manpower Director McNutt, Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national Selective Service director, and Col. Edgar N. Bloomer, New Jersey draft chief.

SURPRISE AREA BLACKOUT WILL BE HELD SOON

Surprise blackouts will be conducted soon, possibly during August, in the central Ohio army air raid warning zone. Similar tests will probably be held also in the state's two other zones, Ralph H. Stone, state Civilian Defense director, said Friday.

The army zone blackouts will be final rehearsals before Ohio's first statewide blackout. When the latter comes, zone A, the northern counties will be blacked out first; zone B, the central area, will follow, and zone C, the southern district, will be last on the assumption that enemy bombers would enter Ohio from the north and sweep southward.

LOCAL BOMBER MISSING AFTER HAMBURG BLAST

Lieut. Lawrence Wolford Fails To Return, War Department Says

THREE BROTHERS IN WAR

Pickaway Township Youth Enlisted In Air Force Prior To Draft

Lieutenant Lawrence Wolford, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford, Pickaway township, is missing in action, the War department has notified his parents.

Young Wolford, a bombardier attached to the Eighth Air Force, based in England, has been missing since July 28, the war office said, the bomber on which he served being reported lost over the North Sea. It is believed that the plane might have been returning to its base after participating in the sixth major offensive against the once-important German port of Hamburg. Planes returning from the Hamburg area would be likely to cross the North Sea enroute home.

Parents Notified

Mr. and Mrs. Wolford received the news concerning their son late Thursday afternoon.

Lieutenant Wolford is the first Circleville area youth reported missing in action in a bomber over any war theatre.

Young Wolford is one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wolford in their country's service. He enlisted prior to the advent of Selective Service, leaving employment in Chillicothe to start training. The lieutenant was graduated from Pickaway township high school in 1934 and from Ohio State university four years later. He entered service in October, 1941.

Four Brothers Serve

Lieutenant Wolford was the first of the four Wolford boys to don his country's uniform. His brother, Harold, is in the army training at New Orleans; Lester has been in service in the southwest Pacific for 16 months, and his younger brother, James, who was graduated last June from Pickaway township high school, is now a naval aviation cadet studying at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. A sister, Mrs. Hazel Crites, is employed at the Lockbourne army air base. Her husband, Sergeant Franklin Crites, is in service in India.

Lieutenant Wolford's picture is in the south window of the Stiffler store, South Court street, in the upper left hand corner of the panel in the front of the window.

CROP INSURANCE COMING BACK, PATTON THINKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, today said he has been assured of President Roosevelt's support in his determined effort to put crop insurance back in the farm program when congress reconvenes.

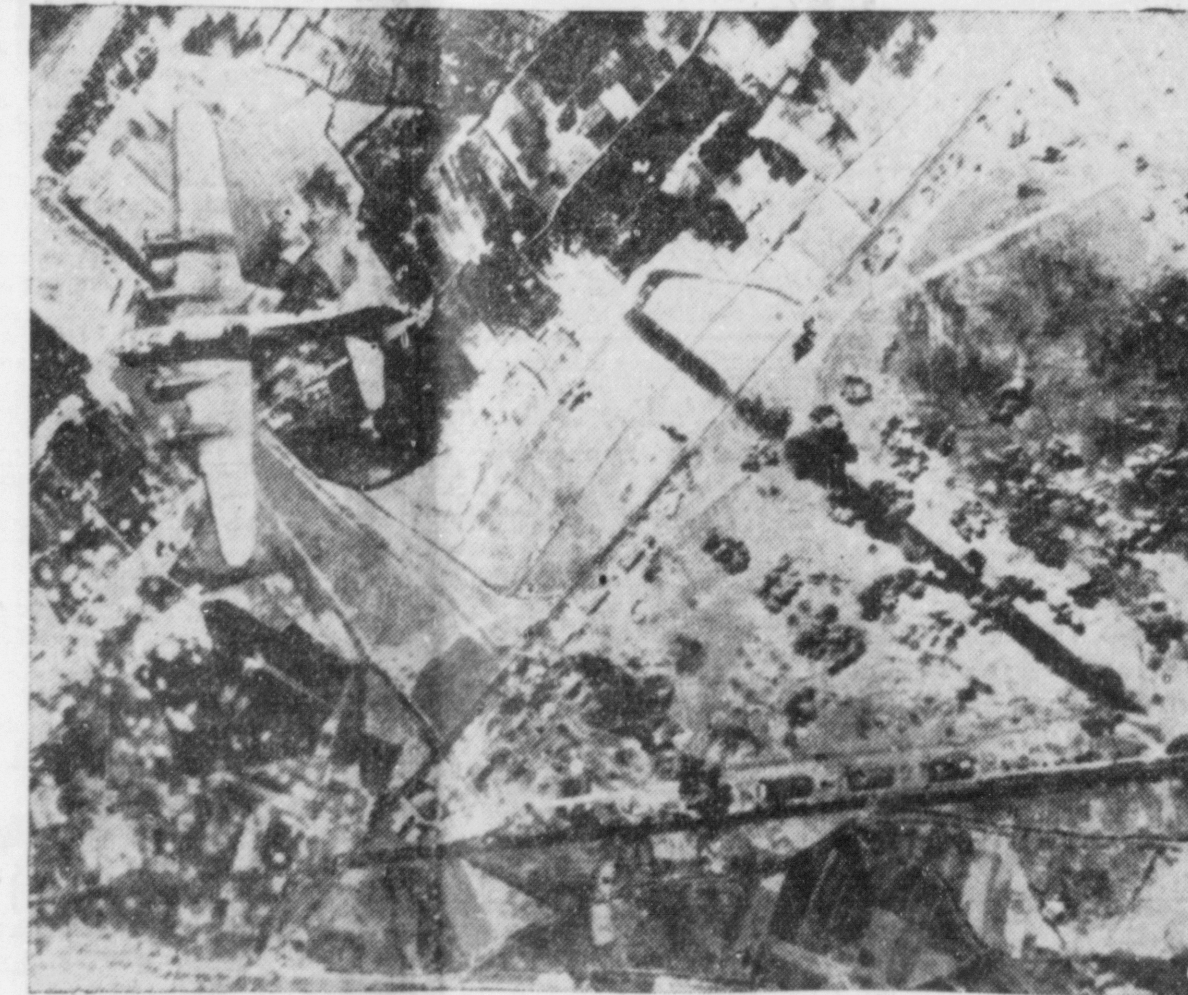

Confident that congress will reinstate provisions for crop protection despite the fact they were liquidated with passage of the agriculture appropriations bill, Patton said:

"We have been assured of support from President Roosevelt and a majority of the senate in our proposal to reinstate crop insurance next fall."

Patton pointed out that in signing the agriculture bill, the President issued a statement accompanying the measure which expressed his "regret" that crop insurance was sliced off the farm program.

"One of the greatest obstacles which confronts the farmer in maintaining a stable income is the hazard of weather," the President wrote at that time, adding he hoped congress on its return would provide funds to continue crop insurance.

SCIOTO RISING TO DANGER MARK

Water Moves Into Lowlands Flooding Corn—Stage Of 17 Feet Expected

BULLETIN

George Mindling, government weather observer at Columbus, said Friday afternoon that the Scioto river is falling fast in Columbus and that Circleville can expect a crest of 15 feet which should be reached during the night.

Scioto river continued to rise Friday at the rate of 1.6 inches an hour, indicating to stream observers that it would probably reach its crest early Saturday morning.

Leroy Hawkes, weather observer, said Friday that from all indications the river will probably climb near the 17-foot crest predicted Wednesday by George Mindling, Columbus weather observer. However, Mindling had expected the 17-foot stage to be reached Thursday noon.

The river had climbed above the 14-foot stage just before noon Friday. Its stage will be checked again at 5 p. m. by Hawkes.

Much water was moving into the lowlands Friday, and many acres of corn were partly covered by the flood water. However, canners and farmers who are keeping a close watch on the stream do not yet know how much damage will be done to the corn crop.

Corn which is completely covered by muddy flood water will probably be lost, farm observers say. Other corn through which a strong current runs will also probably be lost. However, canner operators are hopeful that the crest of the flood is almost at hand and that damage can be held to a minimum.

No rain has fallen in the area north of Circleville since Wednesday evening.

The temperature fell to 59 degrees Friday morning in Circleville after a high of 84 was reached Thursday.

BERLIN PULLS 'SECRET WEAPON' GAG ONCE MORE

MADRID, Aug. 6—Berlin is pulling that old "secret weapon" gag again.

A dispatch from the German capital today quoted German military leaders as threatening to "annihilate and wipe out" all Allied victories by November.

How?

With a "secret weapon."

ARMY EXECUTES SOLDIER FOR ASSAULT, THEFT

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La., Aug. 6—Walter J. Bohn, 26-year-old United States army private from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was executed today at Camp Claiborne.

Convicted on three charges—criminal assault, house-breaking and larceny—Bohn was tried and found guilty by a general court martial held at Camp Claiborne January 29.

He was pronounced dead 12 minutes after the trap was sprung at 5:08 a. m.

It was the first military execution in Louisiana since the Civil war, and the second in the Eighth Service Command.

The crimes of which Bohn was convicted were committed January 8, 1943. Bohn was accused of entering a household in Alexandria on the pretext of getting something to drink, and criminally assaulting a 26-year-old housewife. He then fled from the house, accosted another woman in a car, and stole a purse containing $46.

Private Bohn mounted the scaffold erected on the reservation and the only words audible to the witnesses were a constantly repeated "Jesus have mercy."

CUSTODIAN OF ALIEN PROPERTY MAY QUIT POST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—The Washington grapevine was alive today with reports that Economic Warfare Director Leo T. Crowley is readying his resignation as Alien property custodian.

Substantiation of the report was found in the fact that a scramble was developing among two rival factions within the New Deal who are seeking to have their man named as his successor to the job of administering $500,000,000 of Alien property now in the hands of the United States.

Crowley, in an interview, disclosed that President Roosevelt had asked him to continue as Alien property custodian "for the time being" when he was given the Economic Warfare Post formerly held by Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

He asserted that he had not given any thought to resigning from his custodianship, but observed that the agency was "smooth running" and required little of his time.

SMITH FAVORS SCRAPPING OPA

Small Commission With Clear Duties Advanced As Substitute

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—Sen. Ellison D. Smith (D) S. C., today called for complete scrapping of the Office of Price Administration and substitution by congress of a small commission with clearly defined authority over a limited number of basic commodities.

"The United States is too big a country for every price, every detail and every act of every individual to be dictated from Washington," Smith said. "I thoroughly believe that when congress reconvenes it can bring order out of chaos by giving a small commission specific authority over a limited number of basic necessities of life, but permitting the law of supply and demand to rule in all other cases."

Smith said that any excess income due to high prices received from sale of goods not on the basic list would be sopped up by heavy income taxes.

"Present attempts to control prices not only embarrass and anger the public, but are fatal to some very legitimate businesses," Smith asserted.

"Unless there can be set up a price control organization that in its personnel is not political, but representative of the different sections of the country and is guided by men who have business experience, we will continue to damage the spirit and morale of the people."

FLASH FLOOD IN WEST VIRGINIA COSTS 14 LIVES

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 6—Roving bands of rescue crews pursued the grim task today of scouring inundated central West Virginia for additional victims of raging flood waters which have claimed, according to initial reports, 14 known dead, nine missing and property damage estimated at over $2,000,000.

Braxton county was hardest hit by the swirling waters of the freak "flash flood" which rushed on thousands of mountaineers without warning, but Calhoun and Ritchie counties also came in for a heavy share of the death and destruction.

Disaster officials of the Red Cross declared the greater part of the fatalities had occurred so far because the swollen waters overran the mountain communities while a majority of the trapped persons were sleeping.

Catanians Cheer For Invaders

Sicilians Joyously Clap Hands As British March Into Wrecked City

CATANIA, Aug. 5 (Delayed)—The British Eighth Army's entry into Catania today was greeted by the usual throng of Sicilians joyously clapping their hands, throwing almonds at the Britons and shouting "viva Ingleterra!" or simply "viva!"—Italian equivalents of "hail England!" and "hooray!"

We found the city badly wrecked from earlier bombings but many shops and buildings were still standing untouched. Catanians who had previously fled the city are now streaming back riding carts, horses and mules and afoot.

British patrols first entered the city last night, following this morning by forward elements of the main body. In their advance up the coastal road, the troops met little opposition except from nests of pillboxes and barbed wire at the southern extremity of the city and from one knot of enemy infantry which was driven out last night.

The Germans probably left only a few companies to fight a delaying action in Catania. Two companies of Italians promptly surrendered while the remaining Germans fought on strongly and stubbornly and withdrew under cover of darkness during the night.

The enemy left many areas heavily mined, which are being carefully circumvented by advancing traffic. They also tried to block roads with artillery fire during the night, but the firing has ceased now.

The time is now 9:30 p. m. We passed the enemy's sentry gate before the town at 8:15, where the leading elements of the main British Eighth Army had passed unopposed this morning.

Italians told us the enemy withdrawal began three days ago and that the Germans spent the last five days sowing minefields. Axis (Continued on Page Three)

KRUG REFUSES TO REVEAL HIS ESCAPE METHOD

GRAVENHURST, Ont., Aug. 6—Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug was returned to confinement here today as military authorities launched an intense investigation to determine his method of escape, and the procurement of forged credentials.

When recaptured yesterday at North Bay, Ont., Krug had a Canadian registration card, and forged letters from various Ontario factories stating that he had been employed and could be recommended.

Gravenhurst authorities considered revoking privileges granted the Nazi flier and doubling his guard.

Krug's mysterious escape, details of which he refused to divulge, was his second from a Canadian prison camp—the first from Bowmanville in April 1942, resulting in the conviction on treason charges of Max Stephan, Detroit restaurateur.

WEATHER BALKS SECOND ALLIED RAID ON ROME

LONDON, Aug. 6—The Allies were all prepared to bomb Rome again Wednesday night because of Italy's refusal to capitulate to unconditional surrender demands, but the raid was cancelled because of unfavorable weather, reports from Africa to the London press said today.

Both the News Chronicle and the Daily Express carried dispatches stating that bombing against Rome will be renewed as soon as possible.

KEY AIRFIELD MAKES BASE FOR BLOW AT RABAU

Victory Comes After 37 Days And Nights Of Bitter Struggle

Capture Of Orel, Belgorod By Reds Threatens To Destroy Hun Lines

By International News Service

After 37 days and nights of bitter struggle, the United Nations won an air base within fighter plane striking distance of Rabaul today when the key Japanese airfield at Munda on New Georgia island was overwhelmed and all organized enemy resistance ceased.

An official communique issued by Gen. Douglas MacArthur told briefly of the great victory that climaxed a great offensive launched on June 30 which already has cost the Japanese heavily in ships and planes as well as in previously-occupied territory.

The communique said: "Munda is now in our hands and all organized enemy resistance has ceased."

"Action is now limited to the destruction of isolated enemy groups."

1671 Japs Killed

"Sixteen hundred and 71 enemy dead already have been collected."

The Woodlark and Tribrarian islands, Rendova off the coast of New Georgia and all but a few miles of the Lae-Salamaua area on the New Guinea coast are now in Allied hands.

Munda capped the climax of victory. For as soon as the air strip is repaired, the base can be used by fighter planes protecting huge bombers in assaults against Rabaul, pivot of all Japanese offensive and defense in the Southwest Pacific.

For the last few days, hard-fighting American troops had been pounding at Munda from close range and yesterday had engulfed perhaps half of the air strip so laboriously constructed by the Japanese in an effort to offset the offensive uses of Henderson field on Guadalcanal.

But not until Gen. MacArthur announced that had ceased could it definitely be said that Munda was ours, Japs Wiped Out

As on many previous occasions, the Japanese had to be wiped out man by man. Infantrymen sweeping down the slopes of Kokengola and Bibolo hills which overlook the air field encountered one hidden enemy nest after the other and each had to be dealt with individually.

Concrete revetments erected by the Japanese were found filled with machine-guns, grenades, throwers, rifles and snipers. Tank support enabled the Americans and Australians to move in strength against these emplacements, but any general frontal assault was impossible and the whole affair took time.

The all-out allied drive to clear Sicily of Axis forces moved forward today as principal enemy positions at both ends of the enemy's Etina line crumbled.

FEARFUL JAPS BUILD AIRPORTS TO FEND ATTACK

CHUNGKING, Aug. 6—Japan reportedly is constructing large airports in Hupeh province of China in the hope of forestalling major aerial assault by the Allies on the Japanese home islands, a Chinese army spokesman said today.

Fearing that their own country soon may be visited by raids such as have blasted Germany, the move apparently is being made to build bases from which to attack Allied airports in China, he said.

The Nipponese also are doing their utmost to check Allied submarine activities throughout the Far East, the spokesman said. He said that increased coastal patrols are being used off Fukien province and around the port of Swatow "calculated to tighten the blockade."

BROTHERS HELD FOR ROBBERY OF PIPELINER

Kenneth And Leroy Kneece Carrying Part Of Loot When Arrested

JAILED AT CAMBRIDGE

Charles Aills Held Up At Point Of Gun, Relieved Of Cash And Watch

Robbery of Charles Aills, 31, of Harrison, O., early last Tuesday was cleared up Thursday night when local law enforcement authorities learned that Kenneth Kneece, 30, of Circleville, a fugitive from the London prison farm, and his brother, Harold Leroy Kneece, 17, had been arrested in Cambridge following an automobile accident.

Aills' billfold, his automobile registration, Selective Service classification and other cards were found in possession of the Kneece boys. Aills was robbed of $23 in cash and of a new wristwatch. The Harrison, O., man, a pipeline employee, planned to go to Cambridge Friday with local authorities to try to find the watch, a gift from his wife.

Robbers Use Gun
Aills was robbed by two men who overcame him when he put up a fight after being told, at the point of a revolver, to put up his hands. Aills had been sleeping in his automobile on the Kingston pike when he arrived in Circleville too late Monday night to find a room.

The older Kneece, who was serving a term in the prison farm for armed robbery, fled the institution July 20. At the time of the Aills robbery Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious said that he had a hunch that Kneece was one of the two men who robbed Aills. Descriptions checked fairly well, the deputy said. However, description of the second youth did not fit with anyone in the sheriff's office files.

Tip-off Given
The tip-off on the Kneece brothers came when Eli Roper, Pinkney street, took a Zanesville newspaper to police headquarters, the newspaper reporting the capture of the Kneece brothers. Police Chief W. F. McCrady informed Sheriff Radcliff of the capture and the sheriff telephoned the highway patrol at Cambridge for more information.

It was revealed at that time that papers belonging to Aills had been found on the pair.

Both youths were captured Wednesday after their car, which was stolen in Columbus, had overturned on Route 40 near New Concord. Residents of the vicinity telephoned the highway patrol reporting that two youths who had been in the car ran after the accident.

Patrolmen from the Zanesville and Cambridge substations joined in the search, 12 members of the Muskingum county sheriff's auxiliary patrol also helping in the search.

Offer No Resistance
Both youths were seen walking on a railroad track, and a chase followed. The younger Kneece was caught first, and a while later Kenneth was caught huddled in a weed covered ditch. Neither put up a fight, although the younger Kneece carried a revolver, probably the one used to hold up Aills.

The younger Kneece told highway patrolmen his name was Joe Blotz, but later he admitted his identity. Chief McCrady has several warrants in his desk for the younger Kneece for check forgery, local

25 Boys and Girls In Vacation Play School At Community Center

Twenty-five children ranging in ages from four to 11 are enrolled in the Vacation Play School now being conducted at St. Joseph's Community Center under the direction of Mrs. Mark Armstrong and Miss Harriet Morris. They are being assisted by Miss Eleanor Snyder, who has charge of music, and Mrs. Doyle Haas, who assists with various sewing projects.

Father Edward Reidy, church pastor, is supervisor of the project and gives the religious instruction.

The children are divided into two groups. The first includes children from four to seven. Their activities include learning nursery rhymes, then acting them out. Victrola records provide the musical background. Crayon work and paper cutting are included in the program together with singing games and plays.

The older group includes children from eight to 11. The girls of this group are making a complete doll's outfit. The materials used are materials which have no other use. The boys of the group are being

KEY AIRFIELD MAKES BASE FOR BLOW AT RABAU

Victory Comes After 37
Days And Nights Of Bitter Struggle

can Seventh Army units had crashed through bitter enemy resistance on the north coast to within a mile and a half of San Fratello, 12 miles east of captured San Stefano.

In the center, British and Canadian troops pressed forward to what looked like an inevitable juncture with the Americans near Messina.

In the south, the British army pursued retreating Germans from captured Catania and Paterno.

Difficult Evacuation

Axis commanders appeared desperately to be trying to move their forces to coastal points for evacuation to the Italian mainland, but here they faced new difficulties. With Allied air and naval forces controlling the sea between Sicily and the continent evacuation presented a formidable problem. The Algiers radio reported today that no ships have entered Messina in the last fortnight.

Travelers from Italy said the fall of Catania touched off numerous new peace demonstrations in Italian cities. Crowds were said to have demanded dismissal of Premier Pietro Badoglio. A newly-formed crown council was said to be preparing even to oust King Victor Emmanuel.

In Russia, capture by the Red army of Orel and Belgorod threatened collapse of the entire line of German fortifications on the southern front.

Three Russian rifle divisions, first to enter Orel, were reported considerably west of that former German operational base, in pursuit of the retreating Nazi main forces toward Bryansk. At the same time, Russian forces which overran Belgorod on the south despite vicious German counterattacks pushed forward into the Ukraine.

Moscow Celebrates

Jubilant crowds filled streets and squares in Moscow at midnight as 120 cannon roared a "victory salvo" in celebration of the Soviet victories at Orel and Belgorod and loudspeakers gave details of the Red army successes.

News of the Munda victory was accompanied by the reported arrival in India of Maj. Gen. George Stratemeyer, former chief of the U. S. Army Air Forces' air staff, on a secret mission foreshadowing important developments soon in the Far Eastern war zone.

Gen. Stratemeyer told correspondents in India he could not discuss his assignment until he conferred with Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of American forces in China, Burma and India. The war department's July 27 announcement of Gen. Stratemeyer's transfer said he was given an "undisclosed assignment of extreme importance."

WARDEN LOSES REVOLVER

Dog Warden Harry Riffle is hunting for a revolver which he lost Thursday between the dog kennel and Circleville city limits. The revolver, a .22 caliber on a .38 caliber frame, was borrowed from Andy Ward of Ashville, who is serving in Uncle Sam's navy. Riffle had placed the revolver on the fender of his car, driving away and forgetting that it had been put there. It bounced off.

structure and personnel, Smith declared it is "unthinkable that any body of men in Washington, no matter what their intellectual attainments, could successfully regulate the daily lives of 130,000,000 Americans."

He explained that it is an impossible task to change the whole, mercantile and production habits of the public because they vary in character and elements in every state and section, and because there are "sub-national" economic zones which overlap, causing conflict and confusion.

Smith admitted that OPA executives may have availed themselves of "what advice they could pick up and what they read" but said his opinion was that they did not know the hard practical jobs of the "man behind the counter or the man in the field."

"The reason that the people have seemingly submitted to this (OPA) wrenching apart of their accustomed habits is because they are so patriotic that they believe any protests might weaken the war effort," Smith continued. "This fear of impeding the war effort is the only factor that stands between OPA and an outbreak of the mass of the American people. Their only weapon thus far is the ballot and I believe they will express their protest when balloting time arrives."

SUBSIDY PLAN GIVEN UP, SAYS CAPITAL REPORT

Stabilization Program Being Readied For Congress Action

it represents a victory for farm bloc leaders who have long contended that any "realistic" program of stabilization must take into consideration increasing costs of farm production. The plan likewise is expected to be met with approval by the farm-conscious congress, particularly because abandonment of the subsidy issue will be interpreted as being a congressional "victory" over the executive branch of the government.

Congress will be asked to approve the new program when Jones and other administration leaders lay their proposal before the house and senate and ask for appropriations for the Commodity Credit Corporation to carry it out. Rather large appropriations will be necessary, it is asserted, as the CCC may suffer some losses in backing up the support prices it will have set.

Estimates of the cost of the program are unobtainable, but it is understood that the outlay will be far less than under any program of direct, general subsidies.

Jones Plans Action

The program has been developed to the point where Jones, according to these reliable sources, has made plans to summon both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to a conference where he will outline the plan and ask their advice on the best way to bring the matter up for legislative action. A special message to congress by President Roosevelt, is considered to be a distinct possibility.

The war food administrator is pictured as favoring the plan over the much-discussed subsidy proposal, as he has become convinced that opposition to the latter course has so crystallized in congress that approval cannot be forthcoming.

He is understood to be opposed to the British government's purchase and resale program—an indirect subsidy — as being impossible to administer in the United States.

FRED DONNELLY HEADS SPANISH WAR VET UNIT

Fred Donnelly, Pinckney street, was elected Thursday to serve during the next year as president of the Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry association of Spanish-American war veterans. The election took place at the annual reunion of the association at Franklin Park, Columbus. The reunion was the outfit's forty-fifth.

Other officers named were Louis F. Otto, Marysville, vice-president, and Nathan A. McCoy, Columbus postmaster, member-for-life of the executive board.

Approximately 150 veterans attended the meeting which is always held August 5, the anniversary of an important battle of the Spanish American conflict in which the Fourth Ohio Infantry participated.

The reunion will be held next year in Marysville.

Attending from Circleville in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly were Charles E. Roof Jr. and C. Edward Wright. Others who went into service from here at the reunion were George Cook of Columbus and the Rev. Porter Wright of Lancaster.

Exit of Harry Hopkins From White House Will Please the First Lady

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — Only members of the Roosevelt family knew it, but relations between Mrs. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins for a long time have been at the breaking point.

It is with great relief, therefore, that Mrs. Roosevelt has received the news that Harry and his wife, the former Louise Macy, finally have decided to move out of the White House and look for a home of their own.

Relations have been so cool between Hopkins and Mrs. Roosevelt that her intimate friends and family say he has actually weakened her influence with the President.

To get the full significance of this break it is important to recall that it was Mrs. Roosevelt who really promoted Harry Hopkins. She discovered him when he was a social worker in New York, first as director of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, later as director of the New York State Temporary Emergency Relief Association.

and much-denied emeralds which Lord Beaverbrook gave Mrs. Hopkins for a wedding present can now be told.

Lord Beaverbrook and the Hopkinses always denied that she received an emerald bracelet as a wedding present and this denial was absolutely correct.

Actually the emeralds were given to Mrs. Hopkins by Jock Whitney, a long time friend whom many people expected would marry Mrs. Macy, but who married the former Mrs. Jimmy Roosevelt instead.

Lord Beaverbrook gave the bride diamonds and therefore was quite correct in denying that he gave her emeralds.

What happened was that Beaverbrook handed Hopkins a little package, explaining that it was a present for his bride. Harry put it in his pocket and did not open it until he arrived in the United States.

Then, in order to pay customs, he sent it to a jeweler for appraisal. The diamonds were of an old-style cut and worth about $4,000.

INNER CIRCLE DEBATE

Whether Hopkins was ethically

HARRY AND WINSTON

She has blamed two people for this change—Harry Hopkins and Winston Churchill. It is no secret among White House intimates that she believes Hopkins worships the ground the British Prime Minister walks on, and leaps to promote his every wish.

While Mrs. Roosevelt is a great champion of British-American cooperation, and herself pioneered the plan to permit British children to come to this country during the air raids of 1940, nevertheless she does not think that this country should follow blindly all British policy, or worship everything about the British.

And she feels that her husband is too closely swayed, for the good of the nation, by the Churchill-Hopkins alliance.

NOTE—One thing which will bring a sigh of relief to all members of the White House staff when the Hopkinses move out, is the exit of Mrs. Macy's poodles. "Mrs. Macy," as Mrs. Hopkins is still called around the White House, has one room of the Executive Mansion devoted to her poodles. And woe be it to any of the Roosevelt grandchildren who opens the door of this room by mistake.

LIFTING OF BAN FAILS TO SPEED SALE OF COFFEE

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 — Now that coffee is plentiful and ration-free, Chicago grocers reported today that the public suddenly had lost enthusiasm in its purchase.

Some grocers said that sales were about the same, instead of the expected rush, while others experienced a falling-off in sales. One of the latter was E. E. Seck, president of the Chicago and Cook County Food Dealers Association, who said:

"I used to handle five or six cases a day. I haven't handled that many this week."

CONNER POSTS BOND

correct in permitting his wife to accept the gift is still a subject of debate inside the inner circle. Under a law passed in the days of George Washington, no federal official is permitted to receive a gift from a foreign government. This law, still on the statute books, was passed so that no government official would feel under obligation to a foreign government. As a result Roosevelt has not been permitted to receive gifts of stamps for his collection, from foreign officials.

Actually Lord Beaverbrook was not an official of the British Government when he gave the diamonds to Mrs. Hopkins, though he had been in charge of obtaining airplanes and munitions from the USA. Also it was Mrs. Hopkins, not her husband who received the present.

However, since Harry is in virtual charge of lend-lease, many members of the Administration feel that he was ethically wrong in permitting his wife to accept the Beaverbrook present.

OPEN LETTERS

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: There appears to be a definite trend among gasoline and tire mileage boards to start clamping down on violators of safe driving regulations and on persons who may have falsified their claims for supplemental gasoline permits. Take for instance the fellow who lost his C ration because the board found that instead of needing to travel 720 miles a month to reach his work, he could walk that far in less than five minutes. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if more suspensions might be ordered. Any OPA man who feels inclined to remove some supplemental permits should stand at any street intersection in the north end of Circleville between 6 and 7 a. m. any day to watch the cars speeding north to Columbus area defense plants and army service centers. Don't be surprised if, one of these fine days, you get a bid from the rationing board to "come up and see me some time". OPA isn't kidding when it says "cut down your speed and fill your automobiles with persons working in the same plant in which you may be employed." This gasoline and tire problem is a real one, and many who now are violating regulations will some time soon be mighty sorry, I am afraid.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FARM FOLK

FRIENDS: A couple of items of good news came to you this week. First, the AAA informed you that there would be no limit to the amount of wheat acreage you may seed this fall. This shows that Uncle Sam and his allies and many countries which we hope will be freed from the axis yoke by this time next year will be needing all the wheat they can get. Second was the announcement from the state entomologist that the corn borer had not done so much damage as was first feared. True, many of you have fields of corn that have been hard hit, but the damage must not be so widespread as we all had been led to believe.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COFFEE USERS

IMBIBERS: The OPA issued an appeal the other day that you should buy and consume only the necessary amount of coffee. The office is urging you to be as conservative as you possibly can, even though rationing restrictions have been lifted from purchases of the popular drink. Some persons who thought they were being clever by buying up a supply of coffee before rationing started have found that some of this coffee is becoming rather stale. It serves them right if the coffee they have is not any good when they try to drink it. If every one would be fair about everything they buy then rationing would not be needed at all. Rationing of shoes, sugar, tires and everything else is necessary only so that every one will have his fair share of what goods is available. From all indications the public is being very cooperative so far as coffee is concerned, and I hope that it will continue to be even though rumors may appear from time to time that coffee rationing may again become necessary. All of us would be better off if we paid no attention to rumors concerning any matters with which we are concerned.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EDUCATORS

SCHOOL BOARD: You are being very thoughtful in postponing start of school until September 20. Since the opening is a week later than usual children who live in the rural areas, Wayne and Circleville townships, for instance, will be given an opportunity to work for another week to add to the ever-growing supply of Food for Freedom. Also, you are providing canning factories with another week in which to use Circleville boys of school age in helping to pack corn. The extra week of work may be much more important than it seems at this time. Many thanks to you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO REV. CARL KENNEDY

SIR: I am pleased and so are members of the Presbyterian church congregation that you have decided to come to Circleville as the new pastor of the local church. I hope you will like our city.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FATHERS

MANY OF US: The blow fell this week, and, while, many persons aren't going to like it, Uncle Sam says it is soon going to be necessary to take draft age fathers into the army. If Uncle Sam says it then it must be true, and that's all there is to it. However, you can all feel assured that the local draft board is not going to take any father who is maintaining a bona fide home for his family until all other sources of supply have been exhausted. The bottom of the so-called draft barrel will be scraped and scraped and scraped again before dads will be taken.

CIRCUITEER.

TO AVIATORS

BOYS: Many interesting notes of news have been coming from various air corps training centers in the last few weeks about you fellows, and I hope that all news concerning you continues to be good. Many persons have noted the fact that numerous Circleville and Pickaway county boys are earning their wings as pilots for Uncle Sam's big bombing and fighting aircraft. Many others are receiving commissions as navigators, bombardiers, observers, gunners, and for other jobs which the air corps has available. In addition countless other local youngsters are in training as air cadets and for other phases of air service. Since much of this war is being fought in the air it is mighty fine to know that so many youngsters who have gone out from Circleville, Ashville, Williamsport, New Holland and other places in Pickaway county are doing so well. More power to all of you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EVERY ONE

FRIENDS: Uncle Sam's War Food Administration is issuing a warning to all of us to pull our belts tighter in preparation for reductions in supplies of canned fruit, soups and vegetables in 1944. Predictions are that supplies will be 15 percent lower than this year, and they are low enough now. There's a war on.

Athlete's Heart and the Army

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT IS the chief cause for rejection in the military service? "Trouble with the heart and circulatory system," according to

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The Selective Service Board's official statement.

Does this mean that in the United States our young men are breaking down from heart disease which attacks, or is supposed to attack, only old men? I do not believe this is a logical conclusion. In the first place, the actual number of men rejected for this reason is small. In the second place, the disease which causes as large a number of heart diseases as old age, rheumatic fever, is a disease of youth, and there is always a large group of young people in any heart clinic.

And finally, our Selective Service Boards are being far more critical than the boards in England, where many of our rejects would be accepted.

Physical Work and the Heart. As a matter of fact a number of these bad, organically diseased hearts stand up very well in war service. "Physical work and exercise do not cause heart disease," says Dr. Paul White, of Boston, one of the leading American authorities.

What then of the athlete's heart of which we used to hear so much? Strictly speaking, an athlete's heart is one that is enlarged or otherwise injured or strained by the athletic work he has been doing. And according to everyone who ever investigated the subject, "there ain't no such animal."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Paul Teegardin, prominent stock raiser of Madison township, was in line for an appointment to the state board of agriculture.

About 1,500 persons gathered near the courthouse steps to hear Governor Martin L. Davey talk, with John L. Lewis, labor leader, as center of fire in his pre-primary speech.

Mrs. George Foerst, Mrs. Robert Bates, Miss Hazel Palm of Circleville and Miss Florence Brown of Walnut township returned home after a four-week tour of the West.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Adah Burgett, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Burgett of East Franklin street, and Harold Costlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Costlow of Duval, were married August 3 at the parsonage of the Evangelical church with the Rev. C. W. Ruhman officiating.

D. D. Dowden, E. L. Daley, D. L. Buchanan, M. E. Noggle, Sterling Lamb, the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Elizabeth Drum were members of the Circleville executive committee of the President's emergency reemployment campaign.

Miss Elizabeth May returned to her home on South Court street after spending two weeks with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall May, of Midland, Mich.

25 YEARS AGO

August 5 was the hottest August day in years, the 106 degree mark being reached on the government thermometer.

James B. Milliken, an oil well prospector and operator of Bremen, was instantly killed by an explosion of nitro glycerine at the cement bridge at Scippo creek, near the farm of G. A. Schleyer, a quarter of a mile east of Leislerville.

Private Charles H. Radcliffe, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., who was to leave at once for overseas duty, visited his wife and parents, Jackson township.

It took 47 years to build the original U. S. S. Alabama at the Portsmouth, N. H., Navy yard. When it was launched, in 1867, the ship was already obsolete.

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

WHEN DR. BENNET told Karen, after they had left the sickroom, that he thought Buffy had been badly frightened in some way she assured him that that was impossible. She told the doctor about Buffy, explaining that he had been frightened in an air raid and had had a long sea voyage that must have been something of an ordeal to such a small child alone, and of course he still was very high strung, but she had taken every possible precaution, realizing all this, to protect Buffy from fear of any kind.

"Couldn't it be his reaction from all that he has gone through?" she asked. Of course she was relieved that Buffy had not caught anything and that he no doubt would be quite all right by morning, as the doctor had assured her, but this was bad enough.

"Possibly," Dr. Bennett agreed, "although there must have been some one thing to bring it to a head. There's a mild sedative in the medicine I left. It will break up the fever, too. I'm confident the boy will be all right by morning, but please call me again. And it would be a good idea to try to find out if anything has disturbed him."

Karen said she would do the best she could. Of course she could not question Buffy until morning. He was sleeping soundly now, peacefully, thank goodness, but she would keep watch in case he should wake and need her. She did not see what possibly could have happened to have frightened him so badly as to make him really ill, but he was such a bundle of nerves and of repression, too. Dr. Bennett had said if she could get the boy to tell her what it had been that just the telling probably would undo whatever damage had been done by erasing the fear.

That would be Paul phoning again, Karen thought, when old Jaf said she was wanted on the telephone. He had said he would be anxious to know about Buffy. It was Paul; she told him what Dr. Bennett had said. Paul seemed to think it a bit absurd, although he did not use those words. He said:

"I'll bet you'll still find that the kid's picked up something. The temperature would indicate that. How could he get worked up to 103 degrees over something that was only in his mind? But since Dr. Bennett assures you he'll be okay by morning I'd just forget it, darling."

His tone still was cheerfully reassuring, but Karen could not forget anything that had upset Buffy that quickly. She explained that Dr. Bennett said a child, especially one as high-strung as Buffy, could run a fever without infection. For some reason, as she said this another thought came into her mind. She remembered Paul's saying that sometimes it was good for a boy to have to do the things he did not want to do. Could Paul possibly have . . . but no, he wouldn't . . . not when Karen had cautioned him so, warned him against frightening Buffy in that particular way.

"What did you two do today?" She put the question in an ordinary tone, although since it followed those thoughts it was unexpectedly important.

Paul said, "Why, didn't Buffy tell you?"

She said that there had not been time. "You didn't do anything, go anywhere too exciting, did you?" She was tense now, waiting for Paul's answer. It meant so much to her; it was almost unthinkable that it possibly could be the one that had led to her mind.

But it was. Paul's laugh came back to her, off-hand, casual, as was his tone in answering what seemed so incredible to her. "Why, we went upstairs—the kid and I. But don't get any foolish notion into your head, Karen, that had anything to do with this little upset. I still feel you'll find it's a germ or too much rich desert. We lunched first, you know, and now that I think of it, he did have a big chocolate éclair, and gobbled every bite. He enjoyed the flight, too. We just took a turn over the town and a look down at the ocean. We thought it would be a nice surprise for you to know Buffy had been up. He agreed with that beforehand. He wanted to go."

"But I asked you not to take him up." Karen wondered how she could keep her voice on such a cool level, when she was so horribly upset, so thoroughly provoked—no, more than that, so cruelly disappointed in Paul. She was not convinced, either, by his line of persuasion that Buffy had been a willing victim. She recalled too well those words only a day ago, caused when a plane had flown high overhead in a serene sky. Buffy had said then that he could not tell her why he was crying. Could it be that Paul had been working on the boy, planning this surprise, and warning him to keep it from Karen? But that WAS unthinkable.

"I know you did, dear. But you make too much of some things, you don't understand boys . . . you admit that, yourself." Paul's bright smile still continued. "No use pampering a kid in that kind of thing. You've got to break it."

"I'm sorry," Karen interrupted, "but I don't agree with you on that." She was sure that Dr. Bennett would not, either. Or even Paul, could he have seen Buffy, lying near delirium, long shudders shaking his frail body. You could not "break" a child, as you would a colt. She knew that much about boys. "I had talked about going up with Buffy only yesterday. He said he would go, but he said he wanted me to be with him the first time. I promised I would."

"Oh, then YOU are the one who is jealous now?" There was relief in Paul's cheerfulness at this. "We put one over on you then, darling."

"I'm afraid you don't understand," Karen said. That remained the incredible part, that Paul should fall all around, first with Buffy, now with her, in understanding. "That isn't it at all." "I'm afraid you are making too much of the whole thing." Paul sounded a bit impatient at last, for after all, hadn't he told Karen that the boy had been perfectly willing to go, to have the surprise of telling Karen that he had conquered his fear and been up in a plane? It was difficult to make her see it over the wire. "Suppose I run over, darling, and we can—"

"Not tonight," Karen did not make much attempt to control her feelings now. She felt a hard, bright anger against Paul. She supposed it would die down, but not now, with Buffy lying so pitifully silent, drugged into sleep, upstairs. Not until she made everything all right again with the child. "I promised Buffy I would be there in case he awakened."

"I see," Paul's tone was brisk; he might have known she would put the boy before him. Well, she might be sorry, for Paul was angry and hurt now, too. He only had wanted to help, do his part with the child, for Karen was certainly unreasonable when it came to her nephew . . . not very understanding now, when it came to himself. "I'll drop over tomorrow then—if I may?" For of course by then Karen would see she had been wrong in putting any blame on his shoulders. He still felt certain the kid was coming down with something, and it was ridiculous for them to have even a slight misunderstanding over such a trivial matter.

"All right," Karen said. She did not want to feel this way toward Paul, or to hold such feelings. They had never come even this near to a quarrel, if this could be called that now. It was worse than a quarrel, since it went so much deeper. Down to the fundamentals of agreement, of fairness.

She felt almost as if she did not know Paul at all, when she knew him so very well and so long. But how could he have done such a thing, deliberately disregarding how she felt, all she had said, her wishes—taking Buffy up in a plane when he had said he would not until Karen felt it was all right? How could Paul feel it had been, with the evidence of the child's reaction in a physical illness from that mental ordeal so unnecessarily inflicted, so unkind?

And she had had such high hopes that this day together would be the beginning of a real friendship, of brotherhood between the little boy and the man she was going to marry. She had entrusted the child to Paul's care with such full confidence. She had blamed herself for keeping them apart with her own selfish love.

Because there was so much involved, she felt it deeply. It was so much more than that Paul had taken Buffy up in his plane. It would all have to be straightened out, not only with the little boy, as Dr. Bennett had said it could be, but with Karen, too.

Words of Wisdom

Modesty and humility are the sobriety of the mind; temperance and chastity are the sobriety of the body—Winchote.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday today means that you are impulsive, highly emotional and retiring by nature. Cultivate a more assured and aggressive outlook on life. You are a fine talker and like to read. Choose a mate with intellectual interests if you wish to be happy.

Enjoy every minute of rest and relaxation in the small hours of this night. Realize your right to go after whatever you want, with confidence. Make an image in your mind how you can conquer an obstacle. The vibrations of this aspect are highly potent for inspired guidance. Because you are able to get along well with people, it may seem to you that fortune is smiling. Exchange favors.

WITH SUCH a breathtaking and thrilling chain of planetary configurations, almost any extravagance of prediction might be happily discounted. Events, adventures and situations unpredictable, and unprecedented are probable.

While there is this sign of skyrocket and explosive precipitancy there are also sound and logical auguries and justifications. All in all it is a time for reaching for the highest goals, with all the acumen and skill possible, but there should be sound, safe and sane preparation should a dramatic windfall suddenly materialize. Financial success, promotion, public acclaim, romance and adventure in all phases of human life are likely to eventuate. Accept what the planetary gods send with balance as well as gratitude.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a memorable year of dramatic, thrilling and possibly unprecedented adventures, romances and experiences out of the ordinary or unexpected. Promotion, honors, favors, publicity, social or professional fulfillments, sustained by the solid values of increased credit, financial expansion, and many objective realizations. These should be sought for with efficiency, skill, talent and the utilization of personality, charm and power.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally fitted for the attainment of high place and power in life, through its own worldly equipment as well as by its innate qualities of mind and temperament.

Schools Face Even More Wartime Changes

Emphasis to Be Placed On Pre-Army Training

WASHINGTON—To ease the high school lad's transition from classroom to battlefield, certain far-sighted educators seek new aid to groom youths, approaching draft age, with pre-induction instruction that will prepare them mentally and physically for service in the armed forces. If the plan works, the Army will save six months in the training time of raw recruits.

To make it work in a hurry, Senator Carl Hayden, of Arizona, is introducing a bill in the senate authorizing $8,000,000 to put the high schools of America on a war-time basis.

The legislation is aimed at providing pre-induction aids to future soldiers:

1—More and better instruction in mathematics, science and pre-flight aeronautics.

2—Physical examinations to help the student select his preference in the various branches of the armed services. (No need to take pre-flight aeronautics if the student knows his eyes are not correctable to a 20-20 vision. The many boys who hope to be pilots can find out early if they qualify. If not, they might better take courses to prepare for the ground forces.)

3—Appointment of teacher-trainers to give other teachers refresher courses. (To include suggestions for teaching the war-time approach to classroom subjects.)

4—Emphasis on special training for the 610 specialized jobs in the Army. (Men for such jobs were easy to get in the first year of the war, but mechanics, carpenters, linesmen and radio operators are now much in demand.)

Some fear that the bill, which was favorably approved by the senate committee on education and labor, may arouse that old bugaboo argument used against all educational bills involving federal funds . . . "regimentation of our educational system by congress." But the bill follows the accepted pattern for educational legislation . . . placing the allocation of funds under state control.

The proposed legislation will help not only the 50 per cent of the high school boys who, it is estimated, will go into the armed forces, but also all high school students, boys and girls, needed acutely for other non-combatant tasks.

Those screened out will be given specialized training for a wartime civilian job in a factory, in the government, on the farm.

Right after Pearl Harbor, the military authorities were not concerned over what was taught in the high schools of the country. But with the coming of the 18-year-old draft, they immediately realized the service that the school system could render the soldiers of the near future.

Sixty educators formed a U. S. Wartime Commission and agreed to the drafting of high schools in an organized way. Requests from the war and navy departments were answered in the creation of the High School Victory Corps, working through a policy committee headed by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

Throughout all of these days of planning, the influence of one man of vision, Dr. John W. Studebaker, was a vital force. As commissioner of the U. S. Office of Education, his agency was charged with the responsibility of offering a specific pattern for procedure to the 45 states and the District of Columbia. Naturally, he could make no demands of the states because he doesn't have that kind of authority. So first he inspired them. Then he offered a specific program, but one elastic enough to encourage local ingenuity.

Along with other realistic educators, Dr. Studebaker recognized that the emphasis on the physical must overshadow the academic. He's fond of quoting General Sir Harold Alexander, of the British First Army, "The physical fitness of an Army is one of the most important battle-winning factors in modern war. When fighters meet, it is the men who stick it longest who win in the end."

So, today we find high schools giving five days of physical education instead of two, competitive sports replaced by calisthenics and command training.

Scarcely a school in the country has not made some change in its curriculum to meet wartime demands. Some 76.6 per cent have placed increased emphasis on science. Mathematics classes have almost doubled. Foreign languages are popular. Shop work, particularly with metals, is encouraged.

High school students from Maine to California are encouraged to gain work experience. Even school hours have been revamped. On the west coast, students attend classes from 7 until 11 so they can work in the nearby Lockheed airplane plant for four hours during the afternoon.

FALTERING RED BIRDS CLING TO SECOND SLOT

By International News Service

The faltering Columbus Red Birds today are six and one-half games out of first place and just holding on to the second slot by a slim margin of two games over the Indianapolis Indians.

The rampaging Kansas City Blues in taking two games from the Birds last night in Columbus registered their seventh and eighth consecutive victory. The Blues took the first, 4 to 3 and annexed the nightcap, 5 to 4.

Mel Queen pitched masterful ball in turning the Birds back in the opener. The Red Birds tallied their trio of runs in the first four innings and by doing so deadlocked the count on three separate occasions. However, after the fourth round the Kansas City fireballer pitched shutout ball and in hitless style, too.

In the second half of the twin bill Hendrikson allowed the Birds eight hits.

Milwaukee's league leading Brewers made it four out of five as they defeated the Mud Hens in Toledo 11 to 1 behind the seven hit pitching of Livengood and the hitting of Ted Norbet who got three bingos, two of them doubles.

Louisville salvaged the final game of its three game series with St. Paul, 6 to 1 behind the five-hit pitching of Mel Deutch, who scored his fifth consecutive victory.

The sizzling Indianapolis Indians suffered their tenth straight defeat as Ewald Pyle pitched the Minneapolis Millers to a 4 to 2 victory, allowing the Indians only four scattered hits.

TRY-OUT CAMP OF RED BIRDS OPENS AUG. 20

The annual baseball try-out camp of the Columbus Red Birds will be held at the Red Bird Stadium on August 20, 21 and 22 it was announced today. The camp has been held in Columbus for the last eight years and during that period a number of outstanding players have been signed to contracts. Boys sixteen years of age or older are invited to attend the camp, and are requested to bring their own uniforms, shoes, gloves, etc.

The camp will be held under the direction of Joe Mathes, St. Louis Cardinal official who directs the smaller minor league clubs. He will be assisted by several scouts of the Cardinal organization.

In past years a number of young players have started their careers in professional baseball after attending the Columbus camp. Included in this group are Ken Burkhardt, star right hander of the 1943 Red Birds, and George (Pete) Hader, former Bird hurler now a member of the Great Lakes club.

Boys are requested to be present at 9 a. m. on the morning of August 20th. There will be no charge of any kind for attending the camp.

Dolph Camilli Closes Fine Baseball Career; Declines To Be Giant

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Dolph Camilli is completely happy for the first time this baseball season—ironically happy because his baseball career is over, he has shaken himself free and in a few days will be headed with his fine family back to his California ranch. He is happy at a time other men might weep. There will be no hanging to the loose outer fringes of the game for Camilli, and no coming back, so he says, as coach or manager.

In declining to join the Giants Camilli explained at great length exactly where he stood. He wasn't passing them up merely because they are in the cellar.

He sincerely figures he is through. He can't get his bat round as he used to and many a ball that he would have pulled over the fence when he was at his best has turned into an unpretentious little slice into left field this season. He is hitting below .250—was when the Dodgers dealt him off to the Giants last week. He lacks his old power. He isn't in the best of shape physically and he hasn't been to two seasons. His ranch needs his care and his family wants him there at home.

As he explained to President

Horace Stoneham and Manager Mel Ott of the Giants yesterday, he has probably more friends among the Giants than with any other club, excepting Brooklyn and that is saying a lot because he is universally popular. But he knows he can't help the Giants any more than he could help the Dodgers.

Against all the reasons for his quitting baseball there could have been only one to make him stay—the $7,000 that he would have received for the rest of the season.

Having weighed it all, he decided finally that the decision he had made—and had permitted President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers to change—before the season opened was the right one in the first place. Get out of baseball.

Rickey finally got him to sign but reportedly only for a $22,000 contract plus a Summer home on Long Island for his family and transportation for them all from the coast.

When he told Stoneham and Ott finally and definitely yesterday that he was through he ended all by himself one of the outstanding careers of the last decade. He went to the heights with the Dodgers in 1941, all the way to the pennant after being brought in by Larry MacPhail from the Phillies.

ASHVILLE

The regular Daily Herald carrier, Bill Trego, is along with the local Boy Scout troop up at Camp Lazarus, near Delaware, this week and the substitute service youngsters, Junior Malone, is doing a good job of serving the splendid list of regular Herald patrons here. But especially, the thing we desire to announce to our patrons is, that the regular carrier will make his collections on Monday, August 9, instead, of the usual Saturday. The present carrier does not have a credit account book.

The rural postal route No. 2, out from the local office has a length of 73 miles. Postmaster Smith tells us with 390 mail boxes served. George Messick is the regular carrier, but is out on a two-week vacation, beginning with last Monday. Substitute carrier, Lewis Berry, is serving on the vacant spot, and experienced, is pleasing them all along the line.

Prospects up to now, Frank Grice the melon grower said, are very good for a lot of fine ones, but the ripening point has not been reached yet and will not be, weather favorable, until sometime around the 20th of the month.

Doctor G. R. Gardner may have thought at times when physically off color, that he'd never make it, but he did. Told us he was 70 years young on Tuesday, the 3rd. He has been practicing medicine here for these many years and hopes to add a lot more to the number before he retires from his chosen profession.

Ray Kraft, well known here, son of Lloyd and Mrs. Kraft, in the war service stationed at Seattle, Washington, said in a letter to his parents, that in a swimming athletic event, he cleaned them all out, about 100 of them, told the bunch his home was in Ashville, near the state capital of Ohio, best state of them all, and made them believe it. And the pros go to Ray.

George Kuhlwein, son of George and Mrs. Kuhlwein, here, and in U. S. Signal corps instruction at the University of Chicago, in a letter home, said that his grades on his report card range from 85 to 100 which is not so slow for an Ashville beginner. Several of our local boys are holding outstanding places in the service and here is good luck from home to all of you. The Dick Hedges, Jr., now is "down there" at a flying field as a pilot of a big bomber and with his 13 helper assistants, is ready to be on his way over there in short notice. . . . What has happened to George Oday, because he has not arrived home here, is causing some concern. He is several days overdue on his furlough time from Camp Swift, Texas. George's picture is in the Bill Toole window gallery and shows him to be a very well fed one.

Two Stars Go On

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 6.—Seeded players and doubles teams dominated the pairings today as the semi-final rounds of the national junior and boys' tennis championships got under way. Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, Cal., and Jim Brink of Seattle, Wash., seeded No. 1 and No. 2 respectively, continued their march toward the junior singles title on the Kalamazoo College courts yesterday and then teamed together to advance into the semi-finals of the doubles event.

JEAN BARTHOLO

Jean Barthold, blonde songstress and newcomer to the airwaves, will be the spotlight guest with "Bob Crosby and Company," Sunday at 10:30 p. m. over NBC.

Bob, who is featuring a new girl singer each week, will start off the musical bill of fare by joining Miss Barthold for a duet arrangement of "Everything I've Got Belongs To You." After which, the new singing star will solo on "You'll Never Know." Les Tremayne, who won his radio laurels as the outstanding dramatic star on "First Nighter," has decided to try his hand at musical comedy. He and Bob have concocted an arrangement of "The Bird on Nellie's Hat."

The Pied Pipers, three boys and a girl who specialize in sweet singing, do an old-time favorite of theirs, "Get On Board Little Chillum." Bob joins the foursome when they sing, "Taking A Chance on Love" and "I Don't Want Anybody at All." The Bobcat orchestra will give special attention to, "Crazy Rhythm."

BURNS AND ALLEN

George Burns and Gracie Allen will pay a return visit to the Paul Whiteman Presents... program, starring Dinah Shore, on Sunday, at 8 p. m. over NBC.

There were painstaking plans by George and Gracie during their last visit for an elaborate dinner party to be thrown after the show. However, the festivities were somewhat clouded when Herman, Gracie's pet duck, became alarmed over the main course of the dinner—roast duck.

Even Gracie's consolation that George wouldn't harm his own "flesh and feathers" failed to soothe Herman. Then there was the problem of the roast duck he-

BELLAMY STARS

Corey Ford's best selling book "Short Cut to Tokyo" will be heard on the airwaves August 9 when Cavalcade of America broadcasts an adaptation of it on NBC. Ralph Bellamy will star as narrator on the broadcast.

"Short Cut to Tokyo" is a stirring narrative of our unsung heroes up in the Aleutians... and the first such work to pay them the tribute they so richly deserve.

The Aleutians have been described as a string of barren, rocky, treeless islands, stretching like stepping stones from Asia to North America. The ancestors of the American Indians and Eskimos may have used these stepping stones in their hazardous migrations from Eastern Asia to Alaska and then to the South and East. The Japanese thought they could use the same stepping stones to reach the American continent. Our boys are proving them wrong. The Japs have long recognized the importance of the Aleutians, during the years when most of us were regarding them as waste-land.

BRIEF RADIO NOTES

Lyn Murray is handling the baton on "Man Behind the Gun," in order to permit his friend Van Cleave, the show's regular music director, to get away for a vacation.

How Nazi prisoners in this country react to the bombing of their homeland and the heave-ho of Mussolini in Italy can be learned by tuning in "We, the People" over CBS Sunday, August 8 when the program will feature a pickup from the Huntsville Internment Camp in Texas. A report on the behavior of the once arrogant Stupormen will be given by the camp's commanding officer, Col. Joseph R. Carvel, and two of his soldiers who guard the prisoners.

Shirley Mitchell, Hollywood air actress, already heard frequently on the CBS Groucho Marx show, may draw a part in a new program being built around Chico Marx and his band.

Ralston-Purina Employees Get Certificates Of Service.

ROLE PRODUCING FOOD FOR WAR IS RECOGNIZED

125 Scrolls Bear Signatures of McNutt, Davis And H. C. Ramsower

PRESENTATION BY BLAIR

Honor Highest Conferred On Any Similar Plant In Central Ohio

One hundred and twenty-five employees of the Circleville plant of the Ralston-Purina Co. and operators of Checkerboard feed stores in Circleville, Mount Sterling, New Holland and Frankfort were awarded high honors Thursday by the War Food Administration, the War Manpower Commission and the Ohio Agricultural Extension department for the role they are playing in the war food production effort.

A Certificate of Service, presented by the U. S. Crop Corps, comprised of the three cooperating agencies, was awarded to the Purina workers Thursday by F. K. Blair, county extension agent, at the request of the three organizations. Mr. Blair acted as spokesman for the federal and state agencies in presenting the certificate.

Patriotic Service
The Certificate of Service reads:

"For patriotic service on a farm or in a food processing factory."

It is signed by Chester C. Davis, War Food chief; Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and H. C. Ramsower, state director of the agricultural extension service.

Time was taken out Thursday from the Purina company's routine to call all employees of the local plant together to receive the award. Eldred A. Cayce, general manager of Purina interests in Pickaway county, praised the workers for the job they are doing for the war effort.

Recognizing the great contribution that people who are working in the production of food are playing in the war effort, the War Manpower Commission has created the Certificate of Service to be awarded to persons who have loyally stuck to their jobs in the time of emergency.

Company Recognized
"This certificate is for patriotic service provided in the food processing factory," Mr. Blair told the factory workers. "In your case, it is for work that you have done in connection with the Ralston-Purina Co. This company has been recognized by our government as contributing valuable service toward the production of food, which in turn, is essential to winning the war."

"It is the hope and desire of the War Manpower Commission that you stay with your company as long as it needs you. That commission recognizes the fact that you men and women could make no greater contribution to the war effort than through your services as processors in this plant."

"It is true that the processing of food is not so glamorous as some of the other phases of the war program, such as flying airplanes, running battleships, wearing attractive uniforms and other forms of exciting war work. But your work is much more important than certain phases of other endeavors."

"When the war is over and the battles are won, you can justly say that you had a part in their winning," the workers were told. The Certificate of Service awarded the Ralston-Purina Co. is the first presented to any similar factory in Central Ohio, it is believed.

SHERIFF NABS SUSPECT
Ed Young of Walnut township has been removed to Hocking county following his arrest by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Vern Pontious for Logan authorities who want him for questioning in a hog feed theft case. Two other Pickaway countians have been sent to Hocking county jail for stealing hog feed from the George Defenbaugh property, near Laurelville.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
We all do fade as a leaf.—Isaiah 41:6.

Berger hospital was the recipient this week of two invalid wheel chairs, making four added to the hospital equipment in the last few weeks. The chairs were purchased with local funds of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation and were badly needed supplies for the hospital.

John Robert Radcliff, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Radcliff of 140 Hayward street, underwent a tonsil operation Friday in Berger hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spangler, 235 Logan street, announce the birth of a daughter Thursday evening in Berger hospital.

The Eagles Club will sponsor a games party at their home on East Main St., Friday night, starting at 9. Everyone invited.—ad.

Lucia DeLong, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeLong of 115 Seyfert avenue, received emergency treatment at Berger hospital Thursday at 6 p. m. for a cut on her head suffered in a fall when playing with children in the neighborhood of her home. Dr. Ned Griner treated the injury.

Miss Theresa Summergrade of New York City, a graduate of Ohio State university, has been employed by the Scioto township school board to teach home economics, English and Latin in the high school.

TRIO ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF CHECK FORGERY

Pontious on the part of Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious was crowned with success Thursday when the deputy arrested three persons wanted in Madison county on a check forgery complaint.

Pontious spent many hours sitting in the lobby of the New American Hotel, Thursday, after he learned the suspects were registered there, waiting for them to return to their room so he could make an arrest. After he had remained in the hotel most of the day two of the suspects returned to their room, but wanting all three Pontious waited a while longer until the third had appeared.

Then he arrested all three of them, putting them in jail at 5 p. m.

Pontious was spelled by Sheriff Charles Radcliff part of the day, but the sheriff was forced to put the job in the deputy's hands entirely when he was called for other work.

Pontious reported the persons arrested were Andrew Carter, 33, of Greenup, Kentucky, his wife, Della, 23, and Ralph Pennington, 33, alias Ralph Carter, of 936 South High street, Columbus. Pennington had registered as Ralph Carter at the hotel. Pontious also took Pennington's wife into custody, but released her since she was not included in the complaint filed by Sheriff Gorman Clark of Madison county. Mrs. Pennington had her small child with her.

All three suspects were to be taken to London Friday to face charges.

MRS. MINNIE ELDRIDGE DIES NEAR LANCASTER

Mrs. Minnie Eldridge, 82, a resident of Circleville until 18 months ago, died suddenly Thursday at 8:45 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Grover Boyer, four miles north of Lancaster.

Mrs. Eldridge had spent the last 10 days at the United Brethren church campgrounds at Stoutsville and had been in apparent good health. Thursday evening she had eaten her supper, helped with the dishes and had gone into the yard when she fell dead in the flower bed. Coroner J. D. Dupler of Fairfield county said death was caused by a heart attack.

Mrs. Eldridge is survived by a son, Walter, of Columbus; her daughter, Mrs. Boyer; 11 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Savilla Allen of Circleville and Mrs. L. G. Sain of Logan. Her husband, Charles Henry Eldridge, died several years ago. Mrs. Eldridge had been a member of the Circleville United Brethren church for more than 50 years.

The body was removed to the Defenbaugh funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

That their son, Private Clarence Robison, Jr., has been removed from the southwest Pacific war zone was learned Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robison of Circleville from a War department message which follows up earlier information that their son had been wounded in action.

The Robisons have not been informed concerning the nature of their son's wound, nor on which front he was serving, although most American offensive action in the Southwest Pacific in the last several weeks has been in the Munda and Salamaua areas. It is believed he was fighting in one of these allied drives to wipe out Japanese troops.

The War department message said:

"A report dated July 17 has been received from the Pacific area stating that on July 17 your son, Private Clarence I. Robison, ASN 35615536 was evacuated from the theatre of action. "No detail as to his physical condition was given. When more information is received concerning your son you will be notified immediately."
